Fry Construction is very proud of the level of service we provide all our clients and it is gratifying to have that effort acknowledged by groups like Philips. Fry Construction has been invited by our vendors to these round table conferences do discuss ways to improve the construction process for the past 15 years. Fry has held a Preferred Contractor status with all the major imaging manufacturers for over 24 years, consecutively. During that period, we have received numerous awards for our work in the medical construction field.

Ben Fry, President of Fry Construction, stated, "It has always been a team effort working together with the specialists at Philips alongside the seasoned professionals within the VA Hospital at the Michael E. DeBakey Medical Center in Houston. We are honored to be included in these annual roundtable discussions to help improve the construction process and communication with our associates at Philips. We look forward to working closely with the team at Philips and providing the same level of service to VA hospitals and private healthcare providers across the country. "

About Fry Construction Company, Inc.:
